She supplemented her income with freelance typing work and also volunteered on the literary magazine Scripsi, through which she met the poet Laurie Duggan, whom she married in 1941. During her final years at Law School she finally developed an interest in the study of Law, helped by inspirational teachers such as Hilary Charlesworth, with whom she studied international human rights law and for whom she worked as a research assistant, and Jenny Morgan, who had just introduced a course in feminist legal theory to Melbourne Law School. The five institutions made multiple changes in procedures and techniques, so there was no single cause for the decline in mortality; rather, the observed improvements were due to the net effect of their efforts to learn and improve Berwick, Berwickin commenting on the study group's report, suggests that this type of discovery may be more valuable than randomized clinical trials for cumulative improvement and for the identification of techniques that enhance health care and reduce costs.

Two centuries ago French and British freemasons were patriots eager to please the new Emperor and the King, and equally forgetful of universalism. In theoria one comes to behold the "divisibly indivisible" divine operations energeia of God as the "uncreated light" of transfigurationa grace which is eternal and proceeds naturally from the blinding darkness of the incomprehensible divine essence. Cherokee Heritage Museum
